Right Doesn't Change

Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight! Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink: Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!

Isaiah 5:20-23 KJV

In our day we have seen a number of things that were once correctly considered to be evil not just tolerated but actively promoted as being good. They aren't. No amount of social acceptance or popular support can change something God condemns into something He condones. The temptation presented to those who know the truth is to downplay the absolutes of God's Word and try to find a way to accommodate what is widely accepted. This approach is doomed to failure. We can never water down our standards enough to gain the approval of those who desire to escape God's control. They are not willing to live as God directs. "The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the LORD, and against his anointed, saying, Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us" (Psalm 2:2-3).

This approach also fails because it brings the judgment of God on those who look for ways to approve what He abhors. God wants His people to stand out from the world. He wants us to be beacons of truth, shining in the darkness. Paul wrote, "That ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world;" (Philippians 2:15).

While we should not be harsh or condescending to others, we should also not try to change the truth so that we will be more accepted by the world. God's truth never changes.

A compassionate but uncompromising stand for what is right is vital to our being lights in the darkness of the world around us.

Paul Chappel
