Should You Flee or Not

David sounds incensed as he responds to the advice that he should “flee as a bird to your mountain” (Psalm 11:1). This “man after God’s own heart” has put His trust in the Lord; he has no intention of running away despite the scheming of the wicked.

Speculation abounds as to who urged David to flee and when they recommended it.

Was it his friends on one of the many occasions when Saul wanted to murder him?

Or was it his enemies trying to alarm him with a taunt, implying that he didn’t really trust God? We may never know.

Whatever the case, David didn’t run; he relied on the Lord to uphold him.

On other occasions, however, David wisely fled from danger. As Saul sought his life, “David arose and fled that day for fear of Saul and went to Achish the king of Gath” (1 Samuel 21:10).

When Absalom would have murdered David and taken the throne of Israel, “David said to his servants . . .

‘Arise, and let us flee, or we shall not escape from Absalom’” (2 Samuel 15:14).

Had David lost faith in the Lord?

No, indeed! Staying put in those cases would have been making trial of God.

Through his angel, God Himself told Joseph to “take the young child (Jesus) and his mother, flee to Egypt, and stay there until I bring you word” (Matthew 2:13).

Jesus Himself instructed His apostles, “When they persecute you in this city, flee to the next” (Matthew 10:23).

And as He warned of the upcoming destruction of Jerusalem He commanded, “Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains” (Matthew 24:16).

There is a time to stand and fight; and there is a time to flee.

Fleeing doesn’t necessarily indicate a lack of faith.

Pray for wisdom to see the difference

"The Word of the Lord endures forever."
1 Peter 1:25

They burned Truth in the market place
And thought their work complete;
But next day, with a smiling face,
They met it on the street.

They threw it in a dungeon damp
And thought it was no more;
But lo, it walked with lighted lamp
Among them as before

They scorned and ostracized it,
And ordered it to depart;
But still it dwelt in all the land
And challenged every heart.
