Traveling a New Path

Joshua assumed leadership of Israel after Moses had led them through the wilderness for 40 years. They stood on the border of a new country—a land of milk and honey. On the precipice of a new journey, Joshua affirmed that they had “never been this way before”. There were new experiences, new problems, new trials, new temptations, new sorrows, new opportunities, new tasks, new blessings.

When we are alive in Christ we are always traveling a new path. We are growing, learning, maturing, and facing the enemy with a renewed vigor. The Hebrew writer spoke harshly to those Christians who did not travel the new paths, but tried to stay in the same place in their life. Following Christ will always present a bold new adventure for those driven by faith.

New paths will test our faith. We do not always know where they will lead, but we push on ahead trusting God to lead us all the way.

New paths will teach us to trust God’s provision. Isaiah 30:21 says, “Whether you turn to the right or to the left, your ears will hear a voice behind you, saying, ‘This is the way; walk in it.’” Joshua’s success was significant because he walked according to God’s will, in spite of what his limited human foresight could perceive.

New paths offer new hope. We need to operate on new hopes, new resolves, new visions, new plans, new undertakings, and watch for new opportunities.

When we travel new paths we travel with a sense of expectancy. Joshua said, “Consecrate yourselves, for tomorrow the Lord will do wonders among you” (Joshua 3:5). We should seek the new paths where God will lead His people toward the mission, ministry, and message that belong to Him. Prayer and repentance are the first steps to that promised land.
