Slow Down

As I was 'out and about' visiting people from my church last week, I drove by a posted sign that read like this, "slow down - we love our children." Sometimes in working with families each day of the year I want to tell them, "slow down <and> love your children / church / family / neighbors." Have you noticed how we never have a moment of peace... and we have started to like it that way. A recent TIME magazine poll showed 84% say they couldn't go a single day without their mobile devices in hand. Most of us are so surgically attached to our digital world, and also to busyness and work (to the power of 12) that we haven't come up for air lately to see that there is still a 'life 1.0' out here with real people and real relationships and a real God. We feel connected and full of work purpose, but we might be in real danger of leaving the business of LIFE behind. Is it even possible for us to be touched by the heart of God so we put down our digital devices and our busy schedules just long enough to love one another the way he wants us to? 1 John 3:11 "This is the message you heard from the beginning: We should love one another."

I'm not against work - quite the opposite - I'm against work-ianity. The same Bible that says to "work at it with all your heart" (Colossians 3:23) also says to "be devoted to one another in brotherly love" (Romans 12:10). Being devoted only to daily labor/busyness and thinking that relationships / family life / Christianity will work itself out 'when you have time' only leads to crumbling relationships, a questionable spiritual life, and an overriding sense of utter lonely loss. As the Beatles song says, "All the lonely people, where do they all belong?"

Do you remember the haunting discussion between Jacob Marley & Ebenezer Scrooge in "A Christmas Carol"... "But you were always a good man of business, Jacob," faltered Scrooge. "Business!" cried the ghost, wringing its hands again. "Mankind was my business. The common welfare was my business; charity, mercy, forbearance, and benevolence, were all my business. The dealings of my trade were but a drop of water in the comprehensive ocean of my business!"

Listen to the words of Marley and apply it to your life right here, right now... "Family is my business. My church is my business. My neighbors, my relationships... charity, mercy, forbearance, and benevolence, were all my business. The dealings of my trade were but a drop of water in the comprehensive ocean of my business!" Can you say that last Marley quote to yourself and really mean it? Better yet, can you say it to God and mean it? Can you honestly declare that your 'dealings' (like work, money, technology, hobbies, etc.) should be the 'drop of water in the comprehensive ocean of my business'?

Do your best at work or school, then when you get home, turn off all the stuff and emphasize/ invest in what really matters - your real business - those precious relationships. And don't let anything get in the way... not overtime, not a TV or an iPhone, iPad, smartphone or any other i'MbusyDon'tBotherMe thing in the world. Slow down <and> love your people.

"Beware the barrenness of a busy life." - Socrates
