Kiss and Makeup

According to my sources, August 25 is "Kiss and Makeup Day." I don't know who came up with the idea, whether it's a national or international thing, or whatever, but it sounds like a good idea to me. Kiss and makeup.

Living with someone is not always easy. If your life is anything like that of my wife and I, you have occasional disagreements with one another. Sometimes it's a major issue like somebody spent too much money on something they didn't really need, or it could be something as innocuous as moving something somewhere that your spouse couldn't find it when they needed it. Whatever the case may be, arguments happen between people once in a while. Don't let your anger brew, take care of it so you can kiss and makeup.

Paul warns us that those who marry will face many troubles in this life (1 Corinthians 7:28). Those troubles come in many forms, and to preserve a marriage they need to be dealt with. Ephesians 4:26 says not to let the sun go down on your anger. Take care of things before they grow into an unmanageable monster. Resolve your issues, then kiss and makeup.

When major disagreements occur, when there seems to be no way to work out the problem, some time spent in prayer by both parties may be called for. In extreme cases, marriage counseling may be needed. Remember in those times that your spouse is not your enemy. Listen to each other, work out your problems if at all possible and try with all your heart and soul to be able to kiss and makeup. And remember...couples that do a lot of kissing usually don't need to makeup as much as those that don't.

For details see Kristi Cordle.

Questions for Class Tonight

Last Sunday evening we cut our auditorium class a bit short in order to make time for the Elizabeth's Hope presentation. Here are the questions that Gabe posed at the end of the session. Be thinking about them as we come back to class tonight:

- 1 Is spiritual maturity automatic or is it intentional?
- 2 Is spiritual maturity more about knowing or doing?
- 3 Is spiritual maturity perpetual?
- 4 Is our lack of maturity holding us back as individual Christians? As a church?
