With our 2018 VBS in the books and our slide show presentation this morning, I decided to offer a review. But instead of a lengthy narrative of our theme or an explanation of everything that happened, I offer a snapshot of things I saw or experienced during the week.

- Shout-Out . . . to Heather Gragg for carrying the stress load to ensure that VBS come together.
- The chorus to "I've Got the Joy, Joy, Joy" works for a great bridge in the song, "Only A Little Boy, David."
- Count VBS cannot really be trusted.
- We averaged over 71 children each night.
- Jeff Lindeman did an excellent job on putting the boat together.
- "Fish did" really does sound like "Fish sticks" and "wandering Jews does sound like "laundry juice."
- Never trust a puppet to catch you on a "trust fall."
- Shout-Out . . . Ed McGlaughlin for providing the walking sticks as crafts' projects.
- If heaven can be described as a feast, then we had a window into heaven with all the cookies provided by Sunshine's membership.

Reflections continued from front page...

- Steve Williams looked awesome in a make-shift captain's uniform.
- Shout-Out . . . to Jamie Riley for telling such great stories.
- Bible lessons are important, but children choose to go to VBS because of the cookies, the fun, and the _____.
- Singing "I've Got the Joy, Joy, Joy" without smiling is just wrong.
- From picking a theme to logo design to screen printing t-shirts, a big Shout-Out to Heather Gragg, Jacob Miller, and to Jamie Forbes.
- Maybe one day I'll understand how to sing "Once There Were Three Wandering Jews," but until then Caleb Miller and Jacob Miller need to take the lead. Also, kinda partial to the new lyrics: "Once there were three laundry juice!"
- Shout-Out to Hayes Wilcox and to Jacob Miller for capturing each moment on film.
- It takes a village to pull off a successful VBS and a Shout-Out goes to all those who supported this year's ministry, but God gets the glory!
- See you and Count VBS in 2019!

Soli Deo Gloria!

Have a wonderful day! :)
