Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. Whoever sows to please their flesh, from the flesh will reap destruction; whoever sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life.

Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up.
Galatians 6:7-9 NIV

Richard Norris Williams II was born to a wealthy and well-connected family. His father was a direct descendant of Benjamin Franklin. Williams spent much of his childhood in Europe where he became a noted tennis player. Planning to attend Harvard, Williams and his father booked first class tickets on the Titanic in 1912. They remained on board until the ship sank, and then jumped into the water.

Williams' father was killed by one of the falling funnels of the ship, but the younger Williams was able to cling to a partially inflated life raft until he was rescued.

After four hours in the freezing water, Williams' legs were so badly frostbitten that the doctors wanted to amputate them. But he insisted on a grueling regimen of physical rehabilitation instead, walking for hours day and night until he recovered. Williams became strong enough to resume his tennis career, winning the US Open in both 1914 and 1916, and an Olympic gold medal in 1924.

Every one of us face difficulties and obstacles that could be used as an excuse to give up. We wonder if it is worth going through the hardship to reach the goal. But God is faithful, and He rewards those who persist in diligent effort.

The harvest may occur long after the seeds are planted, but that does not mean that it will not come. This is just as true for the sowing of good seeds as it is for bad ones. We should never allow ourselves to be discouraged by the delay. Paul knew firsthand how hard serving God could be, but he never let that stop him.

“For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day” (2 Corinthians 4:16).

God is always faithful to reward those who refuse to allow the hardship of life to deter them from continuing to serve Him.

Paul Chappell
